University Remote Work Update

For the time being the University of Regina will be maintaining current limitations regarding campus access and the practice of working from home for employees. These will be maintained until further notice. A follow up communication will occur later in May.

Your continued attention to our current practices is most appreciated.

Faculty Retreat Postponed

We had planned our annual Faculty Retreat for May 8. Given recent circumstances with COVID-19 and everyone working remotely, we will postpone the full day retreat.

We would like to hear your thoughts on the topics you do want us to discuss at a more strategic (and operational) level as a Faculty. Over the coming months we hold 3 or 4 shorter sessions with plans to hold a longer Faculty retreat in August or September (depending upon what happens around COVID-19, etc.).

Please complete the survey at this link by 4:30 p.m. on May 5 to share what topics would be of most interest to you for these upcoming discussions: https://uregina.eu.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_3mUZe3aLGKpGUap

Accounting Appointments

We are pleased to share that Dr. Abiodun Isiaka will join us as of July 1, 2020 and Dr. Sanobar Anjum will join us as of January 1, 2021 in tenure-track positions.

They both bring to the Faculty experience and research that complements our strengths and strategic priorities. They will also provide much needed additional support to our accounting colleagues, an area where we continue to see high student demand, both as it relates to the required courses in our BBA and in the accounting major (the major with the highest student interest).

Thanks to the search committee for all of their work in this process - Morina Rennie, Jacqui Gagnon, Randy Linton, Arturo Rubalcava and Monika Cule.

New Papers

Congratulations to Gord Pennycook who has two new papers:
