HIGHLIGHTS:

- This tape consists of the general conversation following the interview in the preceding tape. As such, there is no material to be indexed.

Clarence: The ones that don't know how to throw it I suppose fell in the blue water. (laughs) Oh, lots of things that I can start to pick up and remember back. Where you going yet today?

Burton: Well, we're not going anywhere today. It's getting kind of late, it's twenty after three.

Clarence: Oh, Riley will be falling out of bed pretty soon, maybe he is out of bed. My wife was going to get her hair done today. Washed, I guess, and decided today, this afternoon, not to bother. Every Thursday we make a trip to town to get her hair washed.

Yeah, them scows got to be brought up every now and then to keep them from sinking down in the holes, eh. Bad piece in there someplace, maybe it had a little hole in it from (inaudible), you wouldn't know. (Inaudible) taking in a lot of water. It had to be pulled right onto dry land before they could start using it again. That's going to have to be a hurry-up job. Did you ever try to plant wheat over there?
Burton: No. I think they figure that there's not enough money in it.

Clarence: Not enough money in wheat?

Burton: Yeah.

Clarence: Oh. Well, I used to plant oats in the spring, and then in the fall I plant wheat in the same spot, you know, for change. Of course they got this spray now. They didn't have any spray those days. I don't know if they put something else in there right away or not, almost got to stick a crop couple, three years maybe with some of the spray they got. It didn't cross over too well.

Yeah, Wanda had a big day yesterday, all tired out. All those kids are hollering, "Wanda." There were several other girls in there, but seems every little while... Even here at home, she gets home from school, don't sooner walk in the door, you know, phone rings -- it's for Wanda. I'm glad that the catering is all over with. It took them one month hard work to get that thing started. They've been at that thing for a month. I bet they had five meetings here in this house. Every now and then... Even Dave White was here one night, discussing dances I think they were. That's how come they had him here. Quite a success I guess it was.

Burton: Where did they have this do, at the high school?

Clarence: Yeah, upstairs, I guess.

Burton: Oh yeah.

Clarence: Upstairs and downstairs, I don't know where. Yeah, gym I guess, maybe. Yeah, a big do there. Yeah, quite a deal.

(Indian)

Burton: Oh yeah, never heard. Didn't know anything about it. It was kind of, all I know is it was foggy that morning.

Clarence: Wilfred said how when he opened the door there was stuff flying around there, dirt from the fire.

Burton: Oh yeah.

Clarence: Happened to blowing there, it blew right over to their house. Yeah, burned his machinery up too. Oh yeah, he had these big (inaudible). I just hope he's covered up. That could ruin him, you know, that.

Burton: Yeah, that's right.

Clarence: If he's not covered decently. You can't go out and buy those machines. That's Uncle Riley. "Is your name Chucky?" "No, my name is Charlie." (laughs) My name is Charlie." Hey, another Charlie Jacobs.
