Hill-Ivey Case Writing

There are several Ivey faculty members who are interested in writing cases as part of the Hill-Ivey case-writing initiative, but we need Hill Faculty members to partner with them.

The process begins with a case proposal to Ivey Publishing, and a fund is available to cover case-writing expenses such as research assistants and travel. Upon submission of the final accepted case, the Hill and Ivey faculty members are each paid a $6,000 stipend by Ivey Publishing. For more information about this case-writing opportunity, please see David Senkow.

Visiting Scholar

Congratulations to Visiting Scholar Allen Lim, who has accepted a position with Northlands College in Creighton, SK starting this September!

He has helped the Hill School in our excellent showings at both JDC and the Queen's University Business Competition.

Steven is also a direct entrance Excellence student who has consistently maintained Dean's List status. He was selected as an Accounting Fellow by the Professional Accounting Organizations of Saskatchewan and was a significant contributor to the Hill success at JDC.

The two scholarships are available to the 'brightest and best students' entering their final 30 undergraduate credit hours, who have superior academic performance, extracurricular involvement, and community service. Thank you to all who help our highly accomplished students by nominating them for these scholarships, and congratulations to these two students for their accomplishments!
